

English plus Internship San Francisco - USA

What is the purpose of our Internship Program?

The St Giles San Francisco English Internship Program is designed to give students the opportunity to utilize their English language skills in the workplace. Combining an English course at St Giles San Francisco with time spent in a professional environment, students are able to meet native speakers and put their English skills to practical everyday use, while increasing their awareness and understanding of both American and international working culture. The US is a multi-cultural society, and even though colleagues will be English-speaking, they can be from any nationality and cultural background.

How does the program work?

Students first take any one of our English language courses for a minimum of 4 weeks, followed by an English internship of 12 weeks. The minimum total program length is 16 weeks. During the internship, students assist at the company for a minimum of for 4 hours per day (weekly minimum of 22 hours), and in addition must attend weekly feedback sessions at the College. Students submit a short written report at the end of every week, and an extended report at the end of the course. There is no typical internship. However, there are certain patterns to the placement, which depend on the student's abilities and their level of English, for example: all administrative placement students will fulfill typical daily duties such as computer data entry and other office duties. Students with more experience can expect to have more of their own responsibilities.

What are the program requirements?

Students must be at least 18 years of age with a minimum intermediate English level. A complete list of requirements and conditions of enrollment can be found on our webpage.

Do interns receive a stipend or payment?

All of our English Internship placements are unpaid, and companies do not contribute to lunch or travel costs.
